It's been a while since the last status update on Plasma Mobile, so let's take a look at what happened since then.

To assist new people in contributing, we organized a virtual mini Plasma Mobile sprint in April. During the three days, we discussed many things, including our current tasks, the websites and documentation, our apps and many other topics. Most of our important tasks have been assigned to people, many of them have been implemented already.

On Saturday, there was a training day, with four training sessions on the technology behind Plasma Mobile...
