Only a few days after the release of Release Candidate 1 (RC1) of OpenOffice 3.1.0, the developers have discovered new bugs that they need to eliminate before the final release.

As a result, a release candidate 2 (RC2) will appear the week after Easter. The project team is now planning the release of the final version 3.1 of the free office suite for the 26th of April ? provided that there are no show stoppers in the RC2 release.
