

OpenOffice gets a branded mouse with 18 buttons

By srlinuxx

Created 07/11/2009 - 9:53pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Saturday 7th of November 2009 09:53:10 PM Filed under Hardware [1] OOo [2]

Have you ever looked at your mouse and thought, 'I wish someone would over complicate this?? Well, your wishes have come true!

Popular open source office suite OpenOffice has partnered with a company named WarMouse to release the first mouse built specifically for the application. The mouse features a whopping 18 programmable buttons with double-click functionality. Not only will this monster help you whiz through creating new documents, but it also has 20 default profiles for programs like Photoshop, World of Warcraft and so on.

While I would have to get my hands on it before passing final judgement, seeing how close the buttons are laid out next to each other, I don't see how this thing could be that easy to use.

REst Here [3]

(Editor's note: this has got to be a joke right? 🤖)

Hardware OOo

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/40953>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/39>

[2] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/127>

[3] <http://tech.blorge.com/Structure:/2009/11/07/openoffice-gets-a-branded-mouse-with-18-buttons/>