

Published on Tux Machines (<http://www.tuxmachines.org>)

Home > Blogs > srlinuxx's blog > Some site news

Some site news

By srlinuxx

Created 24/10/2010 - 9:41pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Sunday 24th of October 2010 09:41:46 PM Filed under Site News [1]

In light of the malware scare yesterday, I thought it might be prudent to make sure everything else was up-to-date on security fixes as well. Got off pretty easy that it was only openx (which btw was the latest release) that may have been compromised - easy to purge.

So, last night I updated the server with the latest Lenny and security fixes. I was updating from Etch and a half, so I was a bit nervous, but it went off without a hitch. Didn't really have much choice tho, as Etch had disappeared from mirrors.

In addition, yes, Drupal was a bug fix release or two behind too as well as a few modules. That update went really smoothly too! I can hardly believe it.

But the main reason I'm posting about it is to introduce a new theme. Imbug is a new theme that looks rather cool and is available to registered users. I'm still pondering the header image of that theme and will play with it more as time permits. I also need to fix the hover and visited link colors so they'll change upon action - again, as time permits. So, if some of you can test it out and let me know what you think I'd appreciate it because I'm thinking of using it for the default theme of tuxmachines. So, let me know. I think it's pretty cool looking and a bit more modern.

And let me know if you spot any other elements that are missing or broken since the updates.

Thanks,
susan

Site News

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/48576>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/122>