

Google Chrome OS and Android: arranging a difficult marriage

By fsmag

Created 17/12/2010 - 8:37pm

Submitted by fsmag on Friday 17th of December 2010 08:37:11 PM Filed under Google [1]

There has been a lot of talking, lately, about Google's Chrome OS. People didn't take it too seriously initially; then, last week, Google started sending out demo netbooks which ran ? hear hear ? Google Chrome OS. Google Chrome OS is based on Google's browser, Chrome ? hence the name. The idea is that all you run on your laptop is your browser ? that's it. But this raises a lot of questions. In this article I propose a possibly interesting solution to Google's issues, and how a possible (and not-so-painful) merge with Android should be possible.

Read the article at Freesoftware Magazine [2].

Google

---

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/49752>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/120>

[2] http://www.freesoftwaremagazine.com/columns/google\_chrome\_os\_and\_android\_arranging\_difficult\_marriage