

9 Possible Features of Firefox 5 that may Kill your Chrome Cravings

By srlinuxx

Created 18/06/2011 - 5:46pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Saturday 18th of June 2011 05:46:57 PM Filed under Moz/FF [1]

Firefox 4 was another milestone for the Mozilla team. Of course, with the growing popularity of Chrome, Firefox's admiration seems to have taken a downward trend. However, the record-holding browser isn't going to back down. In its next version, that is Firefox 5, the veteran browser promises to bring along features that will put Firefox at par with Google Chrome.

Here are 9 such features that will make you reconsider if you're planning to switch to Chrome. Or, if you're a Chrome user already, who knows, you might as well go turn back to the fox.

1. Site-specific menus

If you love the little menu that sits on the top left corner of your Firefox 4 window, then, you have even more reasons to be excited. Firefox is planning to implement a new feature that will make a website behave more like an app. What this means is, when you create an app tab for a website -- let's say Twitter -- the site, now an app, will have its very own dedicated menu.

rest here [2]

Moz/FF

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/53258>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/118>

[2] <http://www.junauza.com/2011/06/mozilla-firefox-5-features.html>