

Not everything is happiness in the world of Linux

By srlinuxx

Created 07/03/2012 - 7:27pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Wednesday 7th of March 2012 07:27:35 PM Filed under Linux [1]

For people who enjoy tinkering with their computers, or those who like to see their systems perform actions that they never thought were possible, the freedom of Linux provides satisfactions, amazement, and joy. For example, KDE developers have a legitimate reason to celebrate because their efforts were acknowledged with the award of Best Desktop of 2011.

However, not everything is happiness in the world of Linux. Preceding KDE's award, the first trimester of this year was hit by three sad incidents concerning some notorious KDE distros: PCLinuxOS, Pardus, and Mandriva.

rest here [2]

Linux

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/56946>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/63>

[2] <http://mandrivachronicles.blogspot.com/2012/03/not-everything-is-happiness-in-world-of.html>