When most people think of "open source," the word "nerd" comes to mind pretty quickly (followed by "neck beard"). And that doesn't, exactly, make you think "bad boy."

But that impression is dead wrong. In fact, I'd say people who work in open source tend to be more deserving of the "bad boy" moniker than any other group in the technology world. Let's take a stroll through some of the baddest of these bad boys.
