

Ubuntu to shut down Dropbox competitor Ubuntu One as storage wars heat up

By Roy Schestowitz

Created 02/04/2014 - 4:28pm

Submitted by Roy Schestowitz on Wednesday 2nd of April 2014 04:28:47 PM Filed under Ubuntu [1]

Aside from being a distraction, Canonical says the service is being shut down because "free storage wars aren't a sustainable place for us to be, particularly with other services now regularly offering 25GB ? 50GB free storage." Interestingly, this departure also marks Canonical's departure from music streaming services; One offered a music streaming feature for songs stored on the service.

Read more ? [2]

Ubuntu

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/64664>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/121>

[2] <http://venturebeat.com/2014/04/02/ubuntu-shutters-its-dropbox-competitor-ubuntu-one-as-storage-wars-heat-up/>