Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) are increasing in their popularity. We've seen first hand how much people want to be able to access and learn new information on their own schedule. For example, our Introduction to Linux MOOC, hosted by edX, has received more than 150,000 registrations, and it doesn't even start until August 1.

With summer up on us, we've done some research for you to surface additional MOOCs that could be useful to the Linux and Linux.com community this summer and early fall.
