WebKitGTK+ 2.5.1 is the first version of this release cycle. It comes very late mainly due to the regressions introduced by the switch to CMake and the problems we found after removing WebKit1 from the tree. It also includes some new features that I'll talk about in other posts, probably when 2.6.0 is released. In this post I'll only focus on the breaks introduced in this release, in order to help everybody to adapt their applications to the API changes if needed...
