The Christmas season for GNU/Linux is coming as most communities will be releasing the next version of their Linux-distributions. Betas have started to arrive and there is obvious excitement around those distributions which offer a great Plasma experience and Kubuntu is one such distribution.

Kubuntu has really improved a lot lately. I remember those days, some 2 years back, when Kubuntu was known for ruining the ?KDE? experience. It used to be buggy and ugly. Every time I came across someone who dearly hated ?KDE? and if I asked which OS did he try, the answer used to be Kubuntu 99% of the time.
