One cyber-café owner spoke to us on conditions of anonymity. He said, "These days most people have internet on phone so no one visits cyber café for genuine work. A huge chunk of people coming to cyber-café's are actually sex-deprived couples who get inside the private cubicles and make out. And in most of the cases the boy who gets the girl records the make-out session on webcam and sells on internet as XYZ desi scandal. All these requirements can easily be satisfied on Red Hat or Fedora, why do we need Windows for that? So we are playing safe in line with future government regulations and uninstalling windows from all our computers," he concluded.
